

Emma Honey

for Ramsey Town Commissioner

Committed to community, pride in place & revitalising Ramsey

Why am I standing for Commissioner?

I'm here to do positive things for the residents of Ramsey. If elected I will strive to make a difference and listen to your opinions; representing your interests and making objective decisions for the benefit of the wider community. I firmly believe I can bring real value to the Board of Commission; with 30 years professional office experience, local business insight gained as Secretary at the Northern Chamber of Commerce, and being part of the newly formed Ramsey & Northern Regeneration Steering Group, I build strong relationships through constructive collaboration and have the ability to see the bigger picture. As a Commissioner my fundamental principles are:

- Always be open and accountable;
- act with honesty and integrity;
- act in the best interests of the town and community

What do I want to achieve for Ramsey?

When talking to residents and business owners there's a common thread - the strong desire for regeneration and revitalisation of the town we love. The wheels are already turning, but in order to keep momentum going and achieve more improvements we must embrace change. By fostering a positive and open-minded community that actively listens and supports new ideas, we can work together towards a shared vision for Ramsey, not just for now but for future generations. My goals include:

- Open communication to agree on local priorities and explore ways to deliver them.
- Working to ensure changes and investments meet both immediate needs and contribute to the long-term future of our town and its residents.
- Collaborating to drive sustainable urban development of unused brownfield sites, work on a solution for the town's banking needs and boosting your sense of pride in place for Ramsey.

How Will I Represent the Community?

- Respond to your questions and queries, investigate your concerns, and endeavour to help find real solutions - communication is key.
- Attend formal meetings of the Board: read agendas and reports, conduct further consultation or research, actively participate in discussions, seek clarity and transparency, and make informed decisions.
- Provide a conduit to government, the private sector and local organisations as necessary

I can't make guarantees, but I can promise my dedication and willingness for the greater good of the town, its businesses and residents.
